

Ina Kramer, BA, MA in Health Promotion/Health Management

Research Associate at the Federal Association of Company Health Insurance Funds, Health Department, "Initiative Health and Work (IGA)", Essen, Germany. Field of research: Worksite Health Promotion, the prospective Return on Investment (ROI), the effectiveness and efficiency of worksite health promotion and prevention, Health Risk Appraisals (HRA).

John Griffiths, B.Ed, M.Sc. FRSH

Director of Work2Health. John has an extensive international experience as expert and consultant in the areas of tobacco and alcohol control and workplace health promotion (WHP) (http://www.work2health.org.uk/john_griffiths.php).

Margaret Hodgins, BA, MA, PhD, Reg. Psychology

Lecturer at the National University of Ireland, Galway and Project Leader in the Health Promotion Research Center

(http://www.nuigalway.ie/health_promotion/staff/m_hodgins.html).

Margaret completed her primary degree and postgraduate studies in Dublin University, Trinity College. Margaret has held previous posts as the Director of the Social Care Programme at the Department of Health Promotion, and as a lecturer in Waterford Institute of Technology.

Field of research:

- Workplace Health Promotion, Workplace Bullying
- Quality of Life Studies with marginalised groups
- Healthy Ageing
- Health Promotion in Travelling Community
- The Health Promoting University

Barbara Battel-Kirk, BSc MSc. in Health Promotion

Barbara is an independent consultant on health promotion and multidisciplinary public health (BBK Consultancy) and a part time researcher and lecturer at the National University of Ireland, Galway. Her areas of expertise include: project management and evaluation, community development and competency standards and quality assurance in health promotion and public health. She is currently working with the IUHPE on a project exploring the feasibility of a pan European accreditation system for health promotion.